

Suddenly cold the last days, followed by warm Autumn days coming this week, plus some rain showers ..... year's weather prognosis seems to be in-line for that cold winter as promised

Remember that the dynamics of this year are:

- Cold undercurrent throughout the whole year
- The Controlling Weather for the whole year, from 20/1 is Tai Yin : Damp-Wet
- The Controller of the 2nd Half of the Year from 23/7 is Tai Yang : Cold.

with the expectation that:

The 'Autumn' period Yang Ming : Cool Dry, 23/9 – 27/11, has the Guest of its own Climate Yang Ming : Cool Dry.

This short period of suddenly very cold nights experienced through whole Sweden is a signal of this Tai Yang : Cold : Controller of the 2nd Half of the Year showing its presence; with the signs of the Cold on the Earth – dew and frost in the morning grass– coming some days early : 24 Solar Period Calendar.

As one moves into the Autumn period, expect cool mornings and evenings, with sharp frosts as temperatures become significantly cooler in the 2nd half of this period from 'Frost Descends', 24th October onwards. Days should still be warm, with glowing Autumnal suns.

Expect also some early snow, already within the first two weeks in November. This will not stay but will indicate that Winter to come. It will be very surprising if there is not snow from the end of November – first week in December.

Sweden is a long, long country covering 3 different climatic zones, adjust the above dates plus / minus one – two weeks for more Northern or Southern locations. I write sitting here level with Stockholm, which is 'at the top of the bottom third'.

In more Northern regions, from north Dalarna and Jämtland upwards, expect Winter to come early: some very cold nights already during November, plus early snowfalls.
